Located in the heart of the legendary St. James's Gate Brewery in Dublin, the Guinness Storehouse building dates back to 1904 and is built in the style of the Chicago School of Architecture. It was once the fermentation plant of the brewery and is now a seven-storey visitor experience dedicated to the history of the making of this world famous beer. Ireland's number one International Visitor Attraction unfolds its tale across seven floors shaped around a giant pint. As you make your way through the impressive storehouse, discover the age-old art of brewing that makes Guinness so distinctive. The Storehouse is open for a private welcome reception for the attendees at MB2016.
